CLASS PROPHECY

Perched on a cloud high above earth, I trained the lens of my telescope on the newcomers to the Pearly Gates. I recognized the character trying to pick the lock as my fellow classmate, Walt Weiss, who was formerly the president of the Sealtest Milk Company. His milk deliverers, who were Ralph and Oscar Niebauer, were trying desperately to climb over the gates but failed to succeed when Gerry Robie, with the help of Bette Kruse, both compt. operators with the McKean & Holland Corporation, found a slate of buttons with several names attached to it and hastily pushed the one labeled "receptionist". Presently the receptionist came who was none other than Peg Kreider, who did such a good job on earth that she was permanently appointed receptionist for St. Peter's gate.

As I watched them straggle in, I noticed someone sitting far off in the distance on a cloud with a drawing board and pencil, working away. I flew down and met my good friend, Louanne McDougal, who was rearranging the structure of Heaven. It was then that I realized my old gang was going in to meet St. Peter and I decided I'd follow along with them. Just then, far off in the distance, I thought I could hear a voice behind me, saying, "don't close those gates!" I waited, realizing I recognized the voice of the class cut-up, Roy Eaton. After Roy caught up to me, I asked him what kept him so long and he explained that he had been a janitor at Fairview High School and he had to work overtime. "Well, come on," I said, "or you'll be late."

Down the great halls lined with marble, which a well known mason, Jack Timmons, constructed, until we came to the end where St. Peter was arguing with Forrest Mischler about the marks in his little black grade book. Forrest, once a great doctor, won out as usual and was awarded his pair of wings. At St. Peter's right elbow sat his efficient secretaries, Florence Liesko, Janet Shyler, Gerry Platz, Mary Ives, Clara Johnson and Lois Fiesler. At the left, his accountant, Dave Gregory, who was formerly employed in Steve Estok's grocery store. Next two stewardesses, Donna Smith and Judy Munch, who already had their wings, traded them in for larger and more flexible ones. When Tom Gresh stepped up, St. Peter congratulated him on his fine work as a mortician. Lawyer, Howie Stolz began pleading his case for Teddy Hetz, President of the United States, who was impeached. Found not guilty, was the verdict and Teddy received his wings. "Well, I guess that's all," said St. Peter. "Ahem," said a weak voice beside me. It was Roy. "Oh, yes," said St. Peter, "we forgot you." "I'm sorry, there are no more wings." Roy sadly turned away. Just then Spencer Thorton, a mail order clerk on cloud #7, rushed a new order of wings, constructed by a successful engineer, George Pangratz. "Sorry I'm late," Spence said, "but air traffic had become congested when several angels locked wings at the corner of Milky Way and Vine. They even called in Dave Close, the head of the FBI, because the traffic cop, Gary Horton, was on his yearly vacation."

I decided to stroll around and see how my old classmates were adjusting themselves. I walked under a ladder and looked up and there was Jackie Jonas hanging out the stars. "Hi, Jackie," I said. "Hi," was the reply, "I've done such a good job on earth as a housewife to Bob, and I hung his wash out every week that St. Peter placed me on this job permanently. I decided I was pretty well off with nothing to do and so I started on my way."

The next thing I knew a star had hit me on the head and I was picking myself up. Then I heard Larry Payne, former coach from Notre Dame, bawling out his star player, John Ralph. "I'm sorry," Moose said, "but those new fanged balls up here have five sides and I don't know which side to catch it on." Rearranging my halo back on my head, I found I badly needed a fitting for a new one, so I approached a little halo shop that read, "Janny's Shoppe." I entered the little door and seated myself on a cloud and awaited the halotician. To my surprise, Janice Curry came to wait on me. I was glad to see she was another one of my old school chums. She told me she was a beautician down on earth but graduated when she came up here. Suddenly the door flew open and in walked Sally Andrews. "Hi, Sally," I said. "I hear you used your training as a Physical Therapist to reset Ina Kauffman's back." "Yeah," Sal said, "she slipped on a block in her Child's Care Technition." "Hey," I said, "have you seen Keith Stainbrook around?" "Yeah," she said, "I just passed his farm on the way over and he was picking heavenly peaches." After Janny reset my halo I was on my way again.

As I approached the corner I noticed Roberta Dudas and Marcia Cole sitting on the curb commenting on the food our head cook serves up here. Marcia was a late Medical Secretary and Bobbie was a Medical Technologist, both on the Angelic Hospital staff. "For twenty-five cents," Bobbie said, "you'd think our dietitian, Mary Anne Wallace, could serve better meals." "Yes, but for twenty-five cents, what can you expect to have?" Marcia asked. I decided not to enter into that subject so I proceeded on my way.

I then entered a familiar building, which was the high school of angels. I found our principal, Ronnie Corbett, was discussing some very important matters with the school nurse, Marlene Stancliff. One of the most prominent students, Tom Titus, was sleeping on the couch in the nurses office because he had to catch falling stars in his fish net to study for a Biology assignment. I went on further down the hall and I passed a room in which I glanced in and saw Sue Ferguson busy teaching her elementary class. Sharon Owens and Chuck Leslie were the head of the art department and were busy instructing their students on the fundamentals of art. Banging away on the typewriters were the commercial angels and at the head of the class was their teacher, Cathy Bahm. The last room I passed was the History room and the door was shut. On the door it read, Kenneth Worley, History. I thought I'd better get back to my regular job and so I headed down the hall to the end and entered a door reading, Gymnasium; St. Victor Waisley, Boys Phys. Ed., & St. Sharlene Payne, Girls Phys. Ed.

But just before entering my office, a light flashed in my eyes. True to form, behind the camera peeked Mr. Paul Hogle, cub reporter for the Evening Star Herald. It's my guess that tomorrow's edition of the heavenly news will feature headline pictures of our Celestial Reunion.

Studying???

CLASS WILL

We, the graduating class of nineteen hundred and fifty-seven, do hereby commit this, our final will and testament, to the hope that our memory will never be forgotten.

To the Faculty we leave (if they will let us).

To the Juniors we leave more dates on the calendar.

To the Sophomores we leave more empty lockers.

To the Freshmen we leave an empty fruit machine.

To the Seventh and Eighth grade we leave a quiet study hall.

Sally Andrews leaves her brain to FHS.

Cathy Bahm leaves her shorthand ability to Sally Kramer.

David Close leaves for the outside world with pleasant memories.

Marcia Cole leaves her flag twirling ability to the new flag twirlers.

Ronnie Corbett leaves his witty remarks to anyone who can remember them.

Janice Curry leaves her quiet manner to Judy Payne.

Bobbie Dudas leaves her flirtation to Anne Timmons.

Roy Eaton leaves his clowning around to John Stolz.

Steve Estok leaves a new window in the study hall room.

Sue Ferguson leaves her dimples to Mr. Youngdahl.

Lois Fiesler leaves the Home Economics room with scorched pans.

David Gregory leaves his secret of success lost in the corner of the Commercial room.

Tom Gresh leaves the Commercial course.

Teddy Hetz leaves his height to Rody Badykefer.

Paul Hogle leaves what is left of the Chemistry room in one piece.

Cathie Holland leaves her cheerleading ability to Nancy Baird.

Gary Horton leaves his books behind gladly.

Mary Ives leaves the boogie for Miss Steltzer to learn.

Chuck Leslie leaves the Art room empty.

Jackie Jonas leaves her stories to the 30th chapter of H.J.'s life.

Tootie Johnson leaves to start a family.

Ina Kauffman leaves her quietness to Joyce Titus.

Peggy Kreider leaves her smile to Mrs. Johnson.

Flossie Licsko leaves her place at the typewriter to Shirley Mantz.

Louanne McDougal leaves her dramatic ability to Milo Raub.

Edd McKean leaves his way with the girls to Dave McKean.

Forrest Mischler leaves wronged by the little black book.

Judy Munch leaves Kathy Findley in peace.

Oscar Niebauer leaves his Chemistry apron to Bob Kidon.

Ralph Niebauer leaves his skill in athletics to Tom Leopold.

Sharon Owens leaves her art talent to Linda Regelman.

Larry Payne leaves his football uniform for Doug to grow into.

Sharlene Payne leaves tempermental.

Gerry Platz leaves her typing speed to Helen Marie Downing.

John Ralph leaves with the nickname Moose.

Gerry Robie leaves less competition in the Junior class.

Janet Shyler leaves her gift of gab to Rita Niebauer.

Donna Smith leaves her naturally curly hair to Judy Feldbinger.

Keith Stainbrook leaves Susan Teetzel behind.

Marlene Stancliff leaves her sincereness to Carolyn Parlson.

Howie Stolz leaves an empty space on the line.

Spencer Thorton leaves in a hurry.

Jack Timmons leaves his position of collecting absentees to whoever wants it.

Tom Titus leaves his badly battered halo to Kent Barron.

Vic leaves his self confidence to Jim Sawdy.

Walt leaves the eighth grade sadly behind.

Ken Worley leaves to make his mark in the world.

Mary Anne Wallace leaves her drum to Harry Kokko.

INTERESTING!!

BACCALAUREATE-SUNDAY MAY 20, 1956

Father F. J. Carrick opened with the Invocation. The main address was given by Rev. Adolph Abele. The Octet sang and the band played appropriate selections.

The Junior ushers were Marcia Cole, Louanne McDougal, Teddy Hetz, and Ralph Niebauer.

COMMENCEMENT-TUESDAY MAY 22, 1956

The speakers and their topics were: Donna Rosenberg - "Youth Faces Marriage", Jack Osterberg - "Youth Faces College", Marilyn Jonas - "Youth Faces the Morals of Society", Garth Hetz - "Youth Faces a Changing Society", Don Hetz - "Youth Faces Our Expanding Population", and Janet Strubel, Valedictorian - "Youth Faces His Creator".

Rev. D. E. Bloomster gave the Invocation and Benediction. The Octet under the direction of Mr. Morris Youngdahl, sang "No Man is an Island", and "In Peace and Joy I Now Depart".

Mr. Bauman presented the "Class of 1956" to Mr. A. S. Miles, president of the Board of Education, who presented each of the members of the graduating class with his diploma.

Mrs. Fred Ralph presented the special awards to the outstanding members of each course on behalf of the PTA: Academic - Marilyn Jonas, Girl's Academic - Janet Strubel, Commercial - Helen Barner, Boy's Vocational - John Antolik.

Mrs. Endres presented Helen Barner an award in behalf of the Business and Professional Women's Club of Girard for her outstanding all around achievement.

Special awards were given by Mr. Woll for: Student Council - Donna Rosenberg, Attendance - Janet Strubel.

Don Hetz presented the school with their class gift, a trophy case in the hall.

Audrey Vogt and Jim Massello received the Babe Ruth Award.

Junior Ushers were Cathy Holland, Bette Kruse, Gerry Robie, Jack Timmons, Edd McKean and Walt Weiss.

SPRINGTIME SERENADE

It finally came, the biggest event of the year, the Junior - Senior Prom.

Everyone, looking their best, gathered at the homes of Lou Anne McDougal and Cathie Holland for the swell coke parties. From there everyone went to the Lawrence Park Union Hall where they danced to the music of Neil Charles in the large beautifully decorated ballroom.

The queen, Donna Rosenburg and the king, John Shenk were crowned and presented with roses. Attendants Sally Andrews and Walt Weiss crowned the king and queen, along with Flossie Licsko, Forrest Mischler, Lou Anne McDougal, Ralph Niebauer, Peggy Kreider and Larry Payne.

The tribute to the Senior Class turned out to be a wonderful evening for all who attended.

STUDENT COUNCIL

The Student Council is a student governing body at the present time five years old in Fairview High. These are our purposes:

To promote a high degree of co-operation among students and between the faculty and students.

To stimulate pride in the Fairview School and to promote its interests to the highest degree.

To constitute a medium for expression of initiative in the management of student affairs.

To develop a well rounded program of school life and encourage students to participate actively in it.

To constitute a medium whereby a student of Fairview Junior-Senior High School may be assured of justice.

We hope that we have fulfilled these purposes to the best interests of our students and school.

We shall to the best of our ability continue good government and aid the students in all their problems.
